

New design strategy reduces time and cost of material discovery

May 17, 2016

New design strategy reduces time and cost of material discovery

Researchers from the US and China have recently demonstrated how an informatics-based adaptive design strategy, tightly coupled to experiments, can accelerate the discovery of new materials with targeted properties. They describe their novel strategy in a recent paper in Nature Communications.

Read more.

May 17, 2016 By Materials Today

